AMERICA SHOWS CONCERN AT WAR POSSIBILITIES IN PACIFIC

ITALIANS CAPTURE AMBA ALAGI LAST OBJECTIVE BEFORE RAINS SET IN ADOWA DEFEAT OF 1896 AVENGED

Rome, To-day.
A communique from Marshal Badoglio announces the capture of the summit of Amba Alagi. The position is 9,000 feet high and is regarded by the Italians as of great strategic importance. This is possibly the last Italian objective before the rains set in.
The communique adds that the capture was effected without serious opposition and places the gateway of Abyssinia in Italian hands. All the territory occupied by the Italians before the Battle of Adowa in 1896 reverts to the Italians. It is believed that the Italians may advance as far south as Lake Ashangi before the rains.
Marshal Badoglio stated: "The troops of the 1st Army Corps reached the summit of Amba Alagi early in the morning, and the tricolour is now flying there. The troops avenged the defeat of the Italian forces in 1896."

The Nantucket Island community of 3,500 persons was cut off from communication with the Massachusetts mainland, except for telephone, by Arctic-like icefloes which made water navigation almost impossible last month. A plane (top) is shown landing at Boston with supplies which were landed on the island quickly, while two tugs (below) are shown practically at a standstill as they attempt to tow their barge through the icefloes.

WEST-COAST REPAIR FACILITIES

REHABILITATION NEED EMPHASISED

MATTER OF SELF-DEFENCE WHICH CANNOT BE OVERLOOKED

Washington, To-day.
The presence of the American Fleet in the Pacific and the conditions of the Far East were stressed before the Naval Committee of the House of Representatives yesterday, as emphasising the necessity for the rehabilitation of the west coast shipbuilding and repair facilities.
The Pacific Coast Congressional delegation urged a 6 per cent differential in favour of west coast shipbuilders in the proposed construction of 54 auxiliary naval vessels.
"We should be worse than blind if we closed our eyes to the conditions in the Far East. This is a matter of self-defence the Committee cannot afford to overlook," declared Representative Kahn.
Representative Tolan declared that the slightest spark would be likely to set the world on fire. "If war comes you know from where it will come. Imagine our position with a conflict in the Pacific and something happening to the Panama Canal, so that ships could not reach the east coast for repair."

BUDGET FOR INDIA

Estimated Surplus Revealed

PROPOSED REDUCTION IN TAXATION

New Delhi, To-day.
The complete remission of income-tax on the lowest incomes and a reduction in the present surcharge on other incomes was announced by the Finance Member, Sir James Grigg, presenting the budget at the Assembly yesterday.
Sir James revealed an estimated surplus of Rs. 242,000 of March 31, but pointed out that various factors, including the cost to the Government of India of the separation of Burma, would work against a similarly favourable result in the immediate future.
However, he felt justified in proposing remissions in taxation amounting to about Rs. 20,000,000.
Sir James Grigg outlined a seven-year plan for the reconstruction of Quetta and announced various grants for the amelioration of conditions in the rural areas.—Reuter.

STATE GRANT TO UNIVERSITIES

Large Increase For Next Five Years

London, To-day.
The State grant in aid of the Universities, which is now £1,830,000, is to be raised to £2,100,000 for each year of the next quinquennium, with a special additional increase of £150,000 for the first year of that period.
In announcing this decision the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, says that in making this special addition to the vote for 1936-37 his intention is in effect to give back to the Universities Grant Committee the reserve of £150,000 which was surrendered to the Exchequer during the financial crisis.—British Wireless Service.

LEAGUE POLICY ON SANCTIONS

British Government's Support

EXAMINATION OF OIL EMBARGO

London, To-day.
The Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, will leave London tomorrow to attend Monday's meeting in Geneva of the Committee of Eighteen, the main purpose of which is to consider the question of adding oil to the list of commodities on which an embargo to Italy has been placed. The principles by which the British Government for their part will be guided in this matter were outlined by the Foreign Secretary last Monday.
Having pointed out that there was nothing symbolic about oil and that it was a sanction like any other and to be judged by the same criterion, namely, whether its imposition would help to end the war, he made it clear that the British Government had not departed from their original decision of principle, taken last November, regarding the oil sanction, nor from their resolve to take their full part with others in such collective action that the League may decide upon.
Mr. Eden added that it remained the British Government's policy to maintain steady and collective resistance to aggression, that they would be guided in their task by the spirit of the Covenant itself, and that there would be neither weakness nor wavering in this course until peace is signed.—British Wireless Service.

Officials of the liner Chichibu Maru stated that Mr. Stanley Keyes, the English police officer from Shanghai found missing when the ship docked, appeared to be depressed for several days prior to his disappearance. Attendances discovered Mr. Keyes' cabin stained with blood, and a pocket-knife with the blade bent.
His extensive baggage is being sent to Shanghai, and has not been opened. His purse contained a solitary one-cent piece. Mr. Keyes did not leave a farewell note.—Reuter.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

Contributions To Be Decreased

London, To-day.
The Minister of Labour yesterday announced a reduction in the unemployment insurance contributions from employers and workers. He stated that the insurance funds had a surplus of £6,500,000 yearly for disposal and it was proposed to reduce the weekly rate by 1d.
The Minister of Labour also stated that White Paper would be issued by the Government in reply to the questionnaire from the Geneva International Labour Office regarding the 40-hour week. The Minister stated that he would attend the International Labour Conference this year at Geneva.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

Large orders had been placed in almost every group and much of the business initiated into contracts.—British Wireless.

GRIMMETT TAKES 7 WICKETS

But Nourse Scores Half-Century

FINAL TEST AT DURBAN

Durban, To-day.
The sky was overcast when South Africa won the toss in the fifth and final Test against the Australians and elected to bat, but, owing to bad light, play was stopped half-an-hour before the official time for drawing stumps.
The home team had then scored only 199 runs for the loss of 8 wickets, N. D. Nourse claiming 50. C. V. Grimmett was in fine form with the ball, taking seven of the eight wickets which fell.—Reuter.

SHORTAGE OF TIN

Representations To British Govt.

COMMITTEE FORMED

London, To-day.
Reuter learns that the members of the London Metal Exchange have formed a committee, which has decided to draw the Government's attention to the seriousness of the present shortage of tin in this country, urging remedial measures. This reflects the discontent of the market at the decision of the International Tin Committee's recent decision to reduce the quota from 90 to 85 per cent, which the market fears will result in a further deterioration of the precarious London position.
The metal brokers Strauss and Co., interviewed by Reuter, pointed out that Bolivia lags behind to the extent of 4,000 tons. "Since Bolivian ores are smelted in Britain this principally accounts for the shortage in the London stocks, which are at present 600 tons, or less than 10 days' supply.—Reuter.

LONG SITTING OF HOUSE

22 HOURS AT A STRETCH

London, To-day.
After sitting continuously for nearly 22 hours the House of Commons rose shortly after noon yesterday. The main business before the House was the discussion of the various supplementary estimates, the Opposition refusing to allow their passage without a full debate. When the House ultimately rose it was agreed that the Committee stage of the bill for the continuance of the shipping subsidy and certain other Government business should stand adjourned until Monday.
Owing to the encroachment of the long sitting on yesterday's Parliamentary time the normal Friday morning session, which is devoted to private members' business, was automatically abandoned.—British Wireless Service.

"SHE COULDN'T TAKE IT"
KING'S THEATRE

Her blue blood boiled over when handsome, hard-as-nails Raft wouldn't take his hat off before he socked her! It's a battle royal of cuffs and clinches, kicks and kisses! He's no gentleman and she's no lady—not in that riotous romance, "She Couldn't Take It," co-starring George Raft and Joan Bennett.

You'll get a laugh-laden lesson in love when rough-and-ready racketeer Raft tells the beautiful, buoyant Bennett where to get off and when and how! It's the surprise comedy of the year, the picture with a personality!

Taking part in the wild goings-on are Walter Connolly, Billie Burke, Lloyd Nolan, Wallace Ford, James Blakely and Donald Meek. Ray Garnett directed "She Couldn't Take It" from a screen play prepared by Oliver H. P. Garrett, based on a story by Gene Towne and Graham Baker.

"ROSE OF THE RANCHO"
QUEEN'S THEATRE

Gladys Swarthout, the Metropolitan Opera star, makes her screen debut in this entertaining musical, supported by John Boles.

From the beginning this film swings quickly into musical numbers. Gladys Swarthout sings several songs and has several duets with John Boles and with a Jewish gold prospector, played by Willie Howard, in the catchy song entitled "Girl in California."

John Boles enacts the role of a Federal Agent who is sent to investigate the work of the Vigilantes in California about 1834. He falls in love with the attractive Rosita (Gladys Swarthout), who is also Don Carlos, the masked leader of the Villantes. Boles eventually helps her defend her family and home against a gang headed by Charles Bickford.

Supporting Gladys Swarthout and John Boles are Willie Howard, Herb Williams and Grace Bradley.

"THE PERFECT GENTLEMAN"
ALHAMBRA THEATRE

In this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, mother and daughter will appear together.

They are Mary and Brenda Forbes, of the famous theatrical family. Frank Morgan and Cicely Courtneidge are co-starred in the new film.

Brenda is the latest of the Forbes family to come to the screen, her mother and brother Ralph having been screen players for several years.

For the past four years she has been in Katharine Cornell's company, on the stage. She created the role of the shuffling maid in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" with Miss Cornell's stage production.

Incidentally, Una O'Connor, who played it in Norma Shearer's screen presentation, is also in the cast of "The Perfect Gentleman," playing Frank Morgan's austere sister.

Tim Whelan directed the Edward Childs Carpenter comedy of London life. Henry Stephenson, Richard Waring, Heather Angel, Herbert Mundin, and Ivan Simpson are in the cast.

"REDHEADS ON PARADE"
MAJESTIC THEATRE

Jesse L. Lasky's extravaganza of gorgeous girls and tuneful hits, "Redheads on Parade," brings lovely Dixie Lee (Mrs. Bing Crosby) to the screen to resume her starring career with her first singing and dancing role in years.

A few years ago, Miss Lee was gaining a foothold in motion pictures at Fox Films when she deserted the screen to become Mrs. Bing Crosby. Now she returns as the flaming redhead romance lead in this gay musical show dedicated to the World's titillated ladies.

Miss Lee's voice, which showed great promise in her former screen efforts, has been trained through the period of retirement, so that her present rhythm and warmth make her one of the screen's leading songstresses.

Coupled with John Boles in the romantic leads of "Redheads on Parade," Miss Lee does the choruses of the three Jay Gorney—Don Hartman tunes especially written for the picture.

BRIDGE NOTES

Subtle Falsehoods

By Ely Culbertson

Contract bidding, particularly when both sides are engaged, is like a fencing bout and a psychic bid is a feint. The good player must know how to make the feint without leaving himself vulnerable to the thrust. But even more important, he must know how to foil the feint and parry the attack or pierce the defence of which it is the precursor. The most successful psychics are subtle, luring the opponents into an unmakeable contract, even more often than they succeed in keeping them from bidding the true value of their combined hands.

Good players draw accurate inferences of the high card strength and the distribution of all three unseen hands by listening to opponents as well as to partner. Today's hand shows a psychic which succeeded in deceiving two nationally known experts in an important pair tournament by distorting their picture of the distribution around the table.

1—A pure psychic with an out in excellent support for partner's club suit.

2—With slightly over one honour-trick and a five-card major suit with distributional advantages, North correctly makes a free bid.

3—East's raise of the diamonds has convinced South that his partner must be very short of the suit. He knows there are not more than two losing clubs in the combined hands and from the bidding deduces there cannot be more than two losing diamonds.

4—North's reasoning is a repetition of South's. He sees not more than one losing club and assumes partner will be short of diamonds.

"PEOPLE WILL TALK"
ORIENTAL THEATRE

Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland, that grand pair of motion-picture comics, are featured in "People Will Talk," a story tailored to their particular talents, which keeps you in one continuous uproar of merriment.

Ably supported by a cast including the lovely Lella Hyams and the ingratiating Dean Jagger, Ruggles and Miss Boland prance through 80 minutes of laughs and some of genuine pathos.

"People Will Talk" is the story of a suburban couple, who are happily mated and live a comfortable, pleasant life until their daughter and her husband run into one of those inevitable early-marriage difficulties. The daughter, taking it far too seriously, leaves her husband and returns to the maternal arms.

Miss Boland, the mother, decides that drastic steps will have to be taken. To her peculiar way of thinking, the best way to solve the difficulty is for her and Ruggles to stage a battle of their own, thus convincing the girl of the futility of it all. Ruggles agrees, and the plan is carried out, but the results, though highly amusing, are disastrous for all concerned.

The film reaches a breathlessly amusing climax at a charity wrestling match which Ruggles is forced to referee, though his mind is on his domestic difficulties. It ends up in a near-riot and a fake kidnapping that will leave you choking with laughter.

STREET SLEEPERS'
SOCIETY

Statistics Issued

The following is a report of the number of sleepers who occupied the shelters during the seven nights (February 21 to February 27 inclusive):—

St. Peter's (West Point)—Capacity, 129; Total Sleepers, 903; Turned away, 28.

Po Yan Street (Central)—Capacity, 168; Total Sleepers, 1,120; Turned away, 24.

Nathan Road (Kowloon)—Capacity, 150; Total Sleepers, 1,063; Turned away, 6.

The capacity of all three shelters is again overtaxed.

Although East has been equally misled by his partner's diamond bid, he has already shown his hand, and despite his concentration of high card strength in diamonds, correctly leaves the decision of whether or not to save to West.

The deuce of diamonds lead was won by East's King and a low diamond return trumped — to everyone's surprise — by West. That player's King of clubs lead was then overtaken by East's Ace and the Ace and a low diamond lead which West ruffed defeated the four heart contract two tricks. West's psychic had proven devastating to North and South in a fashion West himself had never hoped for.

"SAY! THIS MILK IS GRAND!
DO YOU FOLKS KEEP A COW?"

"NO, SIR! MY MOTHER MAKES IT OUT OF KLIM POWDERED MILK."

YES, Klim is delicious milk!
And it is powdered, so it keeps perfectly without refrigeration. Only the water is removed.

So Klim will enable you to give your children sweet, fresh milk every time they want it. And that is important.
Vital, doctors say,
for the proper development of sturdy bodies
and strong bones
and teeth.

To obtain rich, nourishing milk
—the kind every growing child
needs—just add water to Klim.
Your children will love its natural flavour... they will thrive on the nourishment it provides.

Fine for infants, too
Powdering makes Klim more digestible. And it is pure. So doctors recommend it for even the finest babies.

RECREIO'S TASK

MEET S. CHINA 'A' IN SENIOR DIV. CLASH TO-DAY

Police Must Keep Eye On Lyemun

INTERESTING JUNIOR MATCHES

In spite of the very big soccer programme this afternoon, there are only a few games worthy of attention, the best perhaps being the First Division clash between the League champions, South China 'A' and the Recreio at Caroline Hill, where the Chinese team will make an attempt to retrieve their reputation after their debacle against St. Joseph's last Sunday.

South China 'A' are fielding their best team and fireworks are expected, but things are not going to be easy for them as they will have to contend with a very stubborn Recreio defence and one which will probably give their forwards much to think about.

Wong Wing, their goalkeeper, is a doubtful starter, as he is taking an examination in Canton, and in case he does not play last week's custodian, who has already created a favourable impression, will deputise.

OSMUND REACHES LAST FOUR

Yan Outclassed In Quarter-Final

The billiard room of the Kowloon Cricket Club was crowded to capacity last night, when A. J. Osmund, the Colony champion, by defeating Yan Charn-pong by 500 points, qualified for the semi-final round of the Colony Senior Billiards Championship.

Many people also turned out at the Civil Service Cricket Club to witness the Junior Championship game in which A. Kitchell unexpectedly defeated F. P. Sequeira by 300 points to 183.

Osmund, who paid a high tribute to his opponent by a very cautious display, chalked up an 80, the highest break of the match, and other breaks of 71, 67, 54, 44, 33 and 33 (unfinished).

Yan chalked up a 44.

FINAL CAER CLARK CUP HOCKEY GAME

H.K. Ladies To Meet 'Y' Ladies

TO DETERMINE RUNNERS-UP POSITION

The 'Y' Ladies are making two chances for their final Caer Clark Cup match this afternoon against the Hong Kong Ladies at Sookun-poo, to determine the winners of the Southern Cup for the runners-up position in the competition.

Miss M. Gardiner will be brought into the intermediate line at right-half, while Mrs. Brown will return to the team at left-half, a position formerly filled by Mrs. Henry, who is now in Shanghai. The Hong Kong Ladies, former holders of the Caer Clark Cup, will probably be fielding the same team which has served them throughout the season, although there is a possibility that Miss E. Pope, their former pivot, will return for this one game, although they should win to-day's encounter with their old line-up.

Weak In Defence
While the 'Y' Ladies are very strong in attack, the defence could do with a little more polishing up. Miss McCaw and Miss Fowler are both inclined to wander too far forward, while Mrs. Brown is not fast enough to cope with the H. K. Ladies' right-wing. Then again, although Miss Gardiner has earned her right to promotion, she is a little slow for the H. K. Ladies. The H. K. Ladies must improve in their attack. True, they were playing on a very poor ground in their 'needle' match against the C.B.A. Ladies, but there are still other factors which contributed towards their downfall.

AUSTRALIAN PONIES CHAMPIONS

KING'S LEAD AND ROSE EVELYN FOR "DOUBLE"

HALCYON FAVOURED TO BEAT ZODIAC OVER 5 FURLONGS

(By "Rapier")

THE Annual Race Meeting will conclude to-day with a card of nine events, commencing at 2 p.m. The weather, which was exceedingly unkind to the Jockey Club on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday last, still looks very threatening, but, if no further rain falls, the track should be firmer than during the third and fourth days.

The big race of the day is the Australian Ponies' Champions and, with Mr. Fatshan's Able Amazon not quite in the pink of condition, an upset may quite easily result. If the champion starts she will be included in the betting, I was informed yesterday.

Mrs. E. H. M. Tinson's Vixen Tor has a very good chance of winning the classic, although Holiday Eve is likely to issue a strong challenge on behalf of the new Australians.

The "double" combination I like best is King's Lead and Rose Evelyn, the latter being almost certain to connect.

First Section The Jockey Cup, and will have to be watched in this race.

The Flemington Plate This race for Australian ponies over five furlongs will be interesting as two fast sprinters in Halcyon and Zodiac will clash. Halcyon will probably be ridden by Mr. Frost, and Zodiac by Mr. Pih. Provided the ground is not too heavy, which is rather doubtful at the time of writing, I rather fancy Halcyon over this short distance, but Zodiac is also capable of burning up the track and will be hard to beat.

Able Warrior (Mr. D. S. Li) may find the pace too fast, while Rippon Tor (Mr. Proulx), making his first appearance, may fill the third position.

The Professional Cup And Substitution Griffs' Champions Those who succeed in picking the winner in the first leg of the Daily Double will find no difficulty in nominating the winner of this race. Rose Evelyn (Mr. Encarnacao) has won every race she has participated in, and should win this easily. This pony has speed and stamina.

I believe that The Gorilla (Mr. Frost) may be sent out, in which event I can see him filling the second position, with Wild Cat third.

An Argonaut's Plea

NORTH POINT VENUE
TO-DAY WEEK

(Contributed)

Hong Kong is rapidly becoming a centre of physical culture.
"Sonitas" instructs us regularly
how to preserve our bodily health and vigour—leagues of Health and Beauty flourish—Tailors are working overtime on Jodphers—
while Hockey, Soccer and Rugby enthusiasts are legion. Boxer checks and manly figure thrust themselves before our eyes from ferry, train, bus and boarding, proclaiming the sovereign powers of Yeast, Sanatogen, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and Ovaltine.

But there has been a lamentable omission.

Unaccustomed as we are to weilding Swan or Parker, yet we feel impelled by a sense of duty to all who grow soft, pallid and harassed on office stools to offer the true solution. No longer need our tailor wrestle with buckram and wads of cotton wool, for we have discovered the real secret of the healthy life—in short we have been initiated in the art of Rowing.

At 5 p.m. we do not adjourn to the "Gripe" or the "Club"—but don singlets and shorts at the R. H. K. Yacht Club and from there, "sitting well in order, smite
the sounding furrows" to Lyemun
—and back.

Three A Week

The devotee of the oar, fore-wears late nights and "hinges." At least three evenings per week do
the Argonauts of North Point shoulder the well-turned blade and march (literally nowadays) to the slip-way. However, we are well-rewarded. All the toxins of the day ooze gratefully from our sun-bronzed bodies and all the blasphemy so well—bottled for hours is sublimated into pulling power
and expended on the tide.

Our merits, so tardily acknowledged, have been recognised in shipping, conscious of their difficulty in navigating narrow gangways and having a horror of the pear-shaped silhouette, have determined to rid themselves of this too-solid flesh by struggling to wrest the Hornell Challenge Cup
from the brawny arms of the Hong Kong Electric Oarsmen.

A "Bounty" Re-Echo!

The Navy, hoping for better results with the oar than the tiller, and inspired, no doubt, by the performance of the crew of the Bounty in the Doldrums, have entered four crews.

Great will be the competition to win and fill the 4th Submarine Flotilla Cup.

Then there will be the exhibi-tionists swooping by in pairs and so we mount to the Hercules and Jason of our stalwart crews, who will give an exhibition such as Hong Kong has never seen.
Come then to North Point on Saturday, March 7, where the spirit of the Argonauts lingers
like a perfume from the past!
Seize your unique opportunity of witnessing these young Spartans.
Now that your pride in Hong Kong Bugger lies in the mud and since your "certain winners" at Happy Valley are still struggling in the same element, we cordially invite you to board a launch at 3 p.m.
on this auspicious day, and gaze in admiration at four, pairs and sculls—the envy of any Oxford coach.

INTRA-CLUB MATCH

GOLF
NOTES

(By "NIBLICK")

At the Kowloon Golf Club on Sunday last, R. K. Collings, lost to T. Paton in the Semi-Final of the Captain's Cup, the difference being a couple of holes at the 18th. Collings has never won a major competition at Kowloon and Paton effectively ruined his hopes for this year.

In the other bracket W. Taylor had no difficulty in disposing of
E. Black by 5 and 4 and will meet Paton in the final. Both players hit a long ball and the match will be decided on the greens with the former holding a slight advantage.

HONG FOURSOMES

CHINA Light beat the Hong Kong Electric by 3 and 2 to enter the quarter-finals of the Hong Foursomes. Seven and five was the margin between Dodwells and H. K. and Whampoa Dock in favour of the former, and they now meet China Light in the top half of the final. Govt. Marine Surveyor will meet the winners of Dairy Farm and Godown Corp.
for the other final position.

Lau Man's return to the game
after a long absence, is welcomed on all sides for he and Lee Tin-sang make a fine pair of fullbacks and are alone worth seeing any day of the week.

Lyemun On Up Grade

The other First Division game to-day worthy of attention is that between the Police, Senior Shield finalists, and Lyemun. The latter commenced their League career with a number of disastrous results, but one can hardly recom-mence the team of to-day with that of four months ago. Lyemun are definitely on the up-grade and are before the commencement of next season should offer stern resistance to some of the teams at the top of the table.

Only one game in the Second Division is likely to offer real entertainment, that between South China and the Club. The latter, however, may, unfortunately, be without the services of Wilson.

KOWLOON AT HOME
TO NAVY

FAVOURABLE TO SECURE
THREE POINTS

CROP OF JUNIOR MATCHES

(By "L.B.W.")

AFTER a week of inactivity, owing to the wet weather, local cricketers will be well provided for this afternoon when a full programme of matches will be carried out. The only senior division game of importance is that between Kowloon Cricket Club and the Navy, who will meet in a League engagement, and, unless the Navy produce their very best form, I predict a win for the K.C.C.

The Kowloon batsmen are in very good form just at the moment and are quite likely to rattle up a big score, though it is very doubtful whether their bowling will be strong enough for them to get the Navy out cheaply enough to force a win as Lt.
Branwell, Lt. Davis, Lt. Bartley and Surg. Lt. Kirkwood are all in very good form with the bat, after a somewhat indifferent start early in the season.

The junior teams of these Clubs will also meet in the League, and here again Kowloon should win, in spite of the fact that they will be playing on a matting wicket.

Kowloon will probably be too good for the sailors in all departments of the game. George Lee, their veteran batsman, and F. E.
Lawrence will probably do most of the scoring, while W. L. Mc-Kenzie and B. Quinell, together with Durling, Lay and Graig, will form the attack.

The Friendlies

The Civil Service will be at home to the Indians in a friendly which will probably result in a draw, while Craigengower ought to have the better of the University at Happy Valley. The junior teams of these Clubs will also meet in friendlies and these should result in wins for the Indians and Craigengower.

Selected Teams

Below are some of the selected teams for to-day's matches:
K.C.C. 1st XI—F. Goodwin, E. C.
Fincher, E. F. Fincher, A. T. Lay, N.
A. E. Mackay, R. Lee, F. S. W.
Smith, A. W. Ramsey, S. V. Gittins,
W. C. Hung and C. F. Waplington.

K.C.C. 2nd XI—H. Overy, G. Lee,
F. E. Lawrence, F. A. Broadbridge,
B. D. Lay, E. Baldwin, W. L. Mackenzie, B. Quinell, G. A. G. Hall, V.
Durling and A. A. Dand.
I.R.C. 1st XI—F. D. Pereira, S. A.
Ismael, A. H. Madar, A. R. Minto, A.
S. Suffad, A. R. Abbas, M. P. Madar,
M. el Aravali, Y. el Arculli, K. Nazarin and A. E. Kitchell.

INTER-FACULTY CRICKET
MATCH AT POKFULAM

At Pokfulam to-morrow afternoon, the Medicals will meet the Engineers in an Inter-faculty cricket match.

The following will represent the Medicals:—

"Prof. L. T. Ride, Dr. K. T. Loke, E.
L. Gosano, H. L. Ozorio, G. M. Abraham, D. S. Blake, K. T. Lin, S. S.
Chin, A. K. Phang, H. C. Ho and B.
K. Ng.
Reserves—N. W. Low and Y. S.
Leong.

their brilliant new inside-left, who will probably be seen for the first time against Stonecutters.

There are several interesting clashes in the Third Division, the Chinese Police encountering the Medical Corps in what will decide their lapses for the divisional championship. The Air Force will meet the Rifles and some exciting play should result.

To-Morrow's Good Card

The feature of this week-end's soccer programme takes place tomorrow, however, when the Athletic entertain the Rifles at Caroline Hill, and the Navy and the Fusiliers clash at Causeway Bay. In the other game, which will probably provide the most exciting
soccer of the three clashes, St.
Joseph's will attempt to record the double by defeating South China
"B", having surprised the "A"
team last Sunday.

South China "B" are fielding a very strong team, but the Saints will once again have the services of their captain and inside-right,
A. Ward, which will make all the difference to the team's chances.

SCOTLAND AND IRELAND
MEET TO-DAY

Local International
Rugby Final

BOTH TEAMS GREATLY STRENGTHENED

The final of the local international Rugby tournament will take place this afternoon on the Club ground, commencing at 5 p.m., when Scotland and Ireland clash in what should be a close struggle.

Both sides have made several changes, Scotland being strengthened in the back division by the inclusion of W. E. Grieve, the Shanghai Interport centre-three-quarter, who will support St.
Warren on the inside, while Gar-McBride will replace in D. Coppin in the pack.

Ireland have also made several changes, S. C. Archer appearing on the right-wing in place of Hyams, while Desmond Hynes has replaced L/Cpl. Wall, of the Army at full-back.

Fraser will appear at left-centre threequarter in support of Hopkins, and H. C. Meeke, the former Club scrum-half, has replaced Lt. Knox, of the Navy, as scrum-half. There are several changes at forward, the front row being entirely new with Scott and McElner, of the Club, and Cooper,
of the Navy, replacing Lincoln, Gibbins and Gillespie, of the Army. Gillespie, however, will be seen in the middle of the back row.

The teams are:
Scotland—Lt. Euman (Navy); St.
Warren (Navy); W. E. Grieve (Club);
Lt. Comdr. St. Clair Ford (Navy)
and H. R. McGilchrist (Club); J. Hutchison (Club) and J. L. Bonnar (Club); M. S. Cumming (Club); J.
A. Dunnett (Club); Lt. Chapman
(Navy); S. H. Garrod (Club) and Ldg.
Sea. Bell (Navy); Lt. Comdr. D.
Orr-Ewing (Navy); Gnr. McBride
(Army) and E. R. Gammell (Club).
Ireland—D. Hynes (Club); S. C.
Archer (Club); Surg. Lt. Kirkwood
(Navy); Lt. Fraser, R.M. (Navy) and E. F. Hopkins (Club); B. J. Gallagher (Club) and H. C. Meeke (Club);
M. W. Scott (Club); J. H. McElner
(Club); Lt. Cooper (Navy); D. J.
Barlow (Club); Sgt. Gullinan (Army);
Lt. Eamonde (Navy); Capt. Gillespie (Army) and F. J. McGugan (Club).

The Happy Valley Spring
Handicap "B" Division
To be able to nominate the winner of this race is a difficult task.
Great Hall (Mr. Roza), Wadebridge
(Mr. Marshall), Racing Boy (Mr.
Needa) are all capable of winning.

Strathroy may find the distance a little long and the pace too fast, Yo Ho (Mr. Marshall) should put up his last two outings. Mersey, with a great fight, as she is fast and only 140 lbs. to carry, should not be overlooked. A Grand Time he
(Mr. Pote-Hunt) may possibly have 168 lbs. to look after, and may cause an upset in the places. This finds the burden too much.

Dictatorships

It has yet to be seen what reliance can be placed on the meagre news coming through from Tokyo about the revolt. A great deal of it seems to contradict itself, and absolutely nothing can be depended upon. But this is not really to be wondered at, since it is only commonsense to assume that the censorship, which has again apparently been tightened, will, in the nature of things, only let through just that amount of information which the Japanese authorities wish to be known. Second only in importance to the "decisive point of whether the revolt is successful or not is the question" of by whom exactly it has been engineered. There is an obvious attempt on somebody's part to suggest that it is a minor matter, for which only a few hotheaded junior officers are responsible. This may or may not be true. But it was surely no idle conjecture which allowed Reuters' agency in one of their messages to state that "the mutineers undoubtedly have the support of powerful military interests."

That is the crux of the matter: is the revolt merely an isolated case of mutiny on the part of junior officers, or is it in fact an outward expression of the deep-rooted wish for a militarist dictatorship which has been more or less openly evident in Japanese politics for some time? The two conjectures cannot be reconciled, unless it is a case of the old, old story of the monkey, the cat, and the chestnuts in the fire. In other words, were the instigators sitting quietly in the background, watching how events turned out—which is a very big and important thing; or was there nothing behind the whole movement but the hotheaded desires of a few young men?

That the answers to these conjectures form a matter of supreme importance to us here and the Far East generally need not be laboured; it is obviously self-evident. No less important would be the matter of a change in regime in Japan from some show of democracy to a dictatorship—Fascist, military or other. Japan has been an adept political pupil of the Western world hitherto; it remains to be seen whether she will carry her pupilage still further. In all conscience she has sufficient models these days to draw upon for the example. The world seems to be perceptibly moving nearer to an open breach between the few remaining democracies in concert against the allied newly-founded political dictatorships. Germany and Italy, Germany and Japan, word of secret agreements and pacts between these countries has been more than a whisper of late. And it seems not unreasonable to suggest that dictatorships looking for a soul-mate will be naturally attracted to regimes of their own kind—if only for the reasons that birds of a feather fly together, and that in such cases, when the voice of the people who might think otherwise is completely stifled, the decision rests with one man, not with the State qua State.

There is absolutely no denying the menace which a military, or Fascist, dictatorship in Japan would represent, especially in the Far East. The comparison of the Japanese militarists with the German militarists in 1914 is another tragic lesson heeded? History has an unfortunate habit of repeating itself. Well, the evidence of history is there for those who can read it; are the Japanese militarists among them, or will another tragic lesson be needed?

HOURS OF WORK EXPERIMENT

New Zealand Goes Ahead

THE 40-HOUR WEEK

(By Ebenezer Blackwood)

The 40-hour week is no longer a matter of merely academic interest. A British Dominion, New Zealand, is the latest country to give serious attention to the proposal. With the definite aim of bringing about a shorter working week, the Government has empowered the Minister of Labour to call a conference representing the employers' and workers' organisations. Many proposed changes in industrial legislation will be discussed, but no secret is made of the fact that the hours question is the primary object of the conference.

Thus further evidence is provided that, in the last few years, the popularity of this idea has increased by leaps and bounds. It seems only yesterday that the Italian delegate to the International Labour Conference of the League of Nations brought forward his tentative proposal, which was greeted with a certain amount of doubt and incredulity. Italy hoped to find, in the reduction of hours of work, a part solution of the unemployment problem.

There was a good deal of sympathy with this object. But questions were asked which were difficult to answer without practical experience. Would it be possible to introduce a shorter working week without reducing wages? If not, would the workers be content to accept less money so that the remainder could pass into the pay envelopes of the new hands taken on? And so on.

Trials Given

Since then, both officially and privately, the 40-hour week has been given a trial in many countries. In view of the "New Deal," the decision of the United States of America to join the League's International Labour Organisation proved of the utmost importance. Prominent British firms, which have introduced shorter hours without loss of pay, are reported to be satisfied with the result of their bold experiment.

At the last International Labour Conference at Geneva, a general convention of principle was adopted expressing approval of the 40-hour week principle, with the maintenance of the standard of living. This year, attempts will be made to apply the scheme to definite industries, and further conventions will be drafted with this end in view.

THE KING'S STURGEON

The King's first sturgeon came to him under a statute prerogative regis of Edward II's reign. This lays down that "sturgeon and grampuses, or great fishes" belong to the Crown "if taken in the seas forming parcel of the dominions of the Crown; if taken in the wide seas they belong to the taker."

In the case of grampuses, the Queen Consort is entitled to the tail portion, the finer to the body, and the King to the head. The reason given for this curious division in old law books is that the tail contains whalebone for the Queen's wardrobe. Actually, the whalebone is in the head.

The Crown is also entitled by prerogative right to "all white swans swimming in open and common rivers provided they are wild and unmarked."

WIMPOLE STREET OF OTHER DAYS

The Barretts, whose house, No. 50, was recently being demolished, were not the only celebrities "of Wimpole Street."

In its earlier days the street's fame was by no means almost exclusively medical, as it is now. Edmund Burke was living there in 1757. The Duchess of Wellington was a resident while her husband was busy with the Peninsular War.

At No. 12 lived Admiral Lord Hood. Henry Hallam wrote at No. 67 his "Constitutional History of England," living there from 1826 to 1841.

Mrs. Cipriani, widow of the painter and friend of Wedgwood, lived at No. 21 in 1826.

AFTER MUSSOLINI—WHAT'S AHEAD? POSSIBLE CONSEQUENCES OF BREAKDOWN

PRINCE OF PIEDMONT A RALLYING POINT FOR NATION

(By Ferdinand Tuohy)

TREMENDOUS adventures such as that upon which the Duce has embarked with a combination of self-confidence, decision, and will surely never excelled in history, have a habit of conducting to personal endings. Maybe it is triumph, maybe it is very much the contrary. Whatever it turns out to be, the solution is seldom a pattering-out affair, leaving the great man even approximately where he was before.

The growing belief that Italy is making a mess of her Ethiopian campaign, in addition to lining up against herself most of the world's minority Fascist elements in one or two lands, is not surprisingly having the effect of causing an ever-wider international radius of people to wonder if—supposing Mussolini went? Not to-day, nor yet perhaps, in the immediate to-morrow, but eventually? What would supervene? It is a vast question, because the chances are that if the Duce had to go he would not do so without attempting to shake down all kinds of columns, far and near; nevertheless, it is a question which one day may have to be faced.

Italians' Answer

Very little help is to be derived by discussing the matter with Italians or by reading their current publications. The answer from this whole quarter might be given as: "Look at Italy!" The entire country emotionally in complete unison with the Duce! No matter what befall! Before Abyssinia there may have been 10 or 15 per cent. surreptitiously against him. Now there are none!

Yet that kind of all-in protest of undying support is of course not good enough. The Italians have been led or hypnotised into such an astonishing general rashness, of word no less than of act, that quite unexpected things may happen; among them, the conceivable giving-out of patiences elsewhere. It is therefore neither premature nor rash on the part of others to examine closely this matter of a possible successorship to Mussolini, using such material for observation as may lie to hand. Four things could apparently happen.

Four Things

First.—Communism. It is true that in more than one country pleas have been heard that Mussolini should be allowed his head in Africa in order to ward off the peril of Bolshevism re-descending upon Italy "as it did 15 years ago until the Duce saved the country from red anarchy."

This is a curious plea at the best of times—that a Dictator should be allowed to fracture every treaty in sight as the one way to keep his country from going Soviet. But we can let that pass and concentrate on this: that there never was a greater myth than the alleged terrible danger of Italy going Communist in 1920. The writer was sent to Turin when some of the workers took over the factories, but no blood flowed, and after a few anxious days the whole movement fizzled out. The Italians simply are not Communists—their history, psychology lie totally away from Russia. Here is what Signor Bonomi, the ex-Premier, has to say about that Red bogey.

"The fact that the attempted revolution was beaten without any infringement of liberty made the victory decisive and complete. This was the crowning moment of the Socialist agitation, the one great revolutionary experiment, simultaneous and concerted, that was tried in Italy. A movement suppressed by force and bloodshed leaves a legacy of hatred and revenge in social life for decades, but if it is allowed to spend itself unresisted it realises its own futility, and is done with for ever. Such was the end of the virus of Bolshevism that had infected the working classes. From that moment the Socialist Party began to decline, and within two years it lay beaten at the feet of Fascism."

GIANT FRENCH PLANE LANDS AT PENSACOLA

Pensacola, Fla. Lieutenant de Vaisseau Paris arrived at Pensacola at 7.34 a.m. Central standard time on March 14, completing a trans-Atlantic trip that began December 9 at Biscarosse, France. The plane made the last leg of the trip, a 2,000-mile flight from Martinique, in slightly less than 20 hours. It later, flew to Miami.

EASTERN AIR DIRECTOR

Mr. H. W. Chattaway For Singapore

MAKING UP GROUND LOST TO DUTCH

London. Mr. H. W. Chattaway recently left Croydon to take up his new appointment as Assistant Director of Civil Aviation at Singapore. The title is slightly misleading. One of Mr. Chattaway's jobs will be to link up the coming round-the-world route, on which Singapore will be an important land mark.

Local Services

He will also have the task of developing the local air services throughout British Malaya and of making up the ground which has been lost to the Dutch.

He will work closely with the Royal Air Force authorities in the formation of local auxiliary Air Force flights.

Mr. Chattaway is an experienced airman. He was a pioneer cross-Channel and wartime pilot. Some years ago he organised civil aviation in Egypt.

COMPARATIVE QUIETNESS

The quietness of modern air transports is due largely to the fact that the huge propellers are geared to revolve at comparatively low speeds.

REGULARITY

Major U. S. air lines last year completed on time 95 to 99 per cent. of all scheduled trips.

EVERYONE A PILOT

Perfect Landings Possible

ELIMINATING MOST OF THE HAZARDS

Detroit.

The aeroplane of the future, designed to eliminate most of the hazards encountered in landing, will permit the average adult to fly after brief instruction.

That was the prediction of Fred E. Weick, senior engineer of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, in a paper read recently at the convention of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Learning To Land

"Learning to fly is largely a matter of learning to land," Mr. Weick said, explaining that aeroplanes in experimental use now give strong reason for hope that the plane "for every man" is rapidly nearing realization.

This plane probably will be equipped with a stable, three-wheel landing gear with one wheel ahead of the two which carry the load, he said. This will do much to prevent the plane nosing over or ground looping, eliminate bouncing, and permit landings to be made "almost regardless of wind direction, the air speed at contact, or the manner in which the aeroplane is guided to the ground," he added.

Freedom From Stalling

By means of improved wing control, freedom from danger of stalling was obtained in an experimental plane built by Mr. Weick and two fellow engineers, he said. Glide control flap proved "very helpful in enabling an unskilled pilot to land with greater accuracy than a good pilot in a conventional plane."

PLANES TO HUNT SEALS

New Expedition In Russia

Moscow. Aeroplanes and ice-breakers are to take part in a big seal-hunting expedition in the White Sea shortly, starting from Murmansk.

The aeroplanes will be used for locating the seals, and will mean a saving of time.

Five ice-breakers and three aeroplanes are taking part, in addition to four other vessels. The headquarters of the expedition will be on Morzhovets Island.

OPEN COCKPIT MACHINES

Small open cockpit aeroplanes led in aircraft production figures for 1934.

From Art To Flying

London. Evening classes in art, chemistry, engineering, languages, economics, cookery, and now aviation—this is the range of subjects now covered by the London County Council's evening classes.

An evening course in air navigation is now available to air-minded London youths at the School of Engineering and Navigation in Poplar, East London.

MACHINE TESTED IN AMERICA

AMAZING POSSIBILITIES OPENED UP

PERSONAL AIR TRANSPORTATION FOR THE AMATEUR FLIER

WHERE is the automobile that a person who had never driven before could step into and drive away with ease? There is none, of course, for in order to drive a car there must be a considerable amount of practice before one is accustomed to the controls.

Yet an aeroplane is shortly to come into the aviation picture which may be easier to operate than a car, will have some automobile features and yet have none of the inherent danger in the air of going into a spin or motor failure.

This is the new "roadable autogyro" which is apparently ready for commercial production by Harold F. Pitcairn, Philadelphia aircraft builder.

With the knowledge of this Spanish inventor, had many of autogyro in the offing it is fairly reasonable to suppose that an era of personal air transportation for the amateur is about to begin, an era that may partly dispense with the automobile. This fact was heightened by the announcement recently that the U.S. Bureau of Air Commerce had licensed an experimental type two-seater "flying" plane developed by Henry Ford and powered with a V-8 engine.

Many Advantages

The roadable autogyro seems to offer the flexibility features of an automobile plus the point-to-point time-saving element of flight. Thus it may be said to be an almost ideal method of travel. The most idealistic elements would appear to be the following: Independence of the weather. Independence of engine failure. Ability to move from or to field under own power. Control under any speed. Ability to take off from any size field.

The autogyro as originally conceived by Juan de la Cierva, its

BOMBERS CAPABLE OF BEING CONVERTED

Pretoria. Seven new aircraft of British design and manufacture and costing approximately £8,000 each will be delivered this year to the Union Government.

The planes are "British Air speed Envoys," two-engined monoplanes with a cruising speed of from 190 to 200 miles an hour.

Co-operation

These machines are bombing planes, but four will be converted for civil aviation purposes into civil aircraft and will be used by South African Airways for their flying services, this being another instance of the co-operation in defence matters between the South African Defence Force and the South African Railways and Harbours Administration.

It is likely that for civil air purposes these machines will be equipped to carry six passengers, while from the military point of view they have proved capable of carrying a satisfactory military load.

They will all built in England and will be delivered in South Africa ready to take the air.

SEVERE STORMS CAUSE DELAY

Late Arrivals At Singapore

DAMAGE CAUSED TO INSTALLATIONS

The extremely stormy weather in the Mediterranean continues to cause serious delays to Imperial Airways services, which delays have been reflected in the several recent late arrivals in Singapore.

Weather conditions there are reported as being unprecedented and considerable damage has been caused to the Imperial Airways marine installation, which is causing the greatest difficulty in the operation of the fleet of flying boats for which Alexandria is the base.

The most strenuous efforts are being made to effect temporary arrangements so as to permit the continuance of operations with a minimum of delay to services.

FOUR ENGINES Every air liner of these great companies employed on the main routes has four engines

RIGOROUS FLYING TESTS are applied to every type of air-liner of these companies not only by them but by the Air Ministry as well

AFTER EACH FLIGHT every air liner has its engines and its whole structure meticulously examined in strict accordance with Air Ministry rules

AN OFFICIAL LICENSED BY THE AIR MINISTRY satisfies himself that each of these air liners is absolutely fit for duty before it is allowed to start on any journey in any part of the world

AFTER A SPECIFIED NUMBER OF WORKING HOURS all the engines in every air liner are stripped, re-built and tested, and this applies to every part of the route throughout Europe and the British Empire

for STAMP COLLECTORS

By A. E. L.

THE new number of the Crown Agents' Bulletin shows that Plate 28 is being brought into use for the few colonies which still employ the old standard designs, the following items having been printed from it:—

Fiji 2d. and 3d. Mauritius 2, 6, 10, 12, 20, and 25 c. 1 and 5 rupees, St. Lucia, 3d and 6d; and Seychelles 6 c and 20 c.

As the new St. Lucian pictorial will be on sale next month, the old 3d and 6d in plate number blocks showing Plate No. 28 should be useful property.

Bermuda.—A new set of stamps is in preparation, states the Crown Agents' Bulletin, in the following values and colours:—

1/2 Green.
1d. Black and red.
1 1/2d. Black and Brown.
2d. Black and state-grey.
2 1/2d. Light and deep blue.
3d. Black and red.
6d. Red and mauve.
1s. Green.
1 1/2d. Brown.

They will be in six different designs, details of which have not been announced except that a portrait of His Majesty is to figure in the top right corner of the 1d. 1 1/2d. 2 1/2d. and 1s. values.

Egypt.—The first supply of the latest 3 m. Xmas Military Seal proved insufficient to meet the demand, and while a fresh printing was being made, the 1935 1 p. carmine Military Seal was purchased locally. "Xmas 1935—3 Millions."

Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika.—I notice that although a number of the values of the current pictorial are being reprinted, the 65 c. is not among them.

Malaya.—The new stamps have all been printed by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., in sheets of 100 (10 x 10), and all have the Plate No. 1 in the bottom sheet margin, but the issues of the various States differ from one another slightly in the positioning of the imprint and plate number as follows:—

Pahang.—Thomas de la Rue & Co., Ltd., London, imprint below last four stamps of the row: plate number beneath fourth stamp.

Perak.—Imprint below Nos. 5 to 8: plate number as last.

Negri Sembilan.—As Perak.

Selangor.—Imprint below Nos. 4 to 7 (i.e. central) plate number in right hand sheet margin opposite seventh horizontal row. In connection with the use of these stamps, I am told that, although naturally each state only sells its own stamps, they can be employed indiscriminately in any of the four states. I also understand that when the new Straits Settlements issue has appeared they will also be usable in this territory.

I shall incidentally be interested to learn why the name of the state does not appear in English on the Selangor stamps.

Morocco Agencies.—The new 10 centimos on 1d G. B. photograph stamp show the V34 control and cylinder No. 25. This means, incidentally, that the stamps are of the intermediate size.

New Zealand.—I read in the Bulletin of the N. Z. Philatelic Society that the latest Health stamp was printed in Melbourne at the Commonwealth Stamp Printing Works. This would appear to be the first time Australia has done such work for her sister Dominion.

The value of the forthcoming Anzac stamp will be a 1d + 1d one, the premium going to the fund for the relief of distress among returned soldiers.

Stamp booklets containing stamps of the new 1d "Kiwi" type were placed on sale on November 18. A special plate has been made for this booklet issue and I understand that the original die has been deepened.

Owing to the difficulty in obtaining a correct register of the watermark on stamps of the pictorial issue, it has been decided to print future supplies on paper watermarked "N Z and Star" all

HOTEL CECIL WEDDING

CHAN — NG

LARGE NUMBER OF GUESTS PRESENT

A Chinese wedding of great interest was solemnised at the Hotel Cecil yesterday, when Miss Ng How-ying, niece of Mr. Ng Hong-ying, became the bride of Mr. Chan Wai-kuen, of Messrs. Melchers and Co. The ceremony was performed by the Hon. Dr. T'so Seen-wan.

The bridegroom is the eldest son of Mr. Chan Shau-tung, a well-known merchant and a brother of Mr. Chan Wai-chuen, manager of the Hotel Cecil. He was educated at St. Paul's College, where he was a scholar and a fine volleyball player.

Entering on the arm of the bridegroom and carrying a bouquet of white sweetpeas, the bride looked charming in a white gown of satin. She was attended by Miss Rosemary Tang as her bridesmaid, who carried a nosegay of pink gladioli and wore a dress of powder-blue satin. The duties of the bestman were discharged by Mr. Chung Yu-wing, while the Misses Tang Yiu-fun, Ho Ching-ha and Ip Chor-hang were flower girls and Master Ip Tai-tak was the page.

To-day's Short Story

ORANGES

By William Saroyan

THEY told him, Stand-on-the-corner with two of the biggest oranges in your hand and when an automobile goes by smile, and wave the oranges at them. Five cents each if they want one, his Uncle Jake said, three for ten cents; thirty-five cents a dozen. Smile big, he said. You can smile, can't you, Luke? You got it in you to smile once in a while ain't you?

He tried very hard to smile and his Uncle Jake made a terrible face, so he knew it was a bad smile. He wished he could laugh out loud the way some people laughed, only they weren't scared the way he was, and always mixed-up.

I never did see such a serious boy in all my life, his uncle Jake said. Luke, Luke, he said.

His uncle squatted down so his head would be level with his, so he could look into his eyes and talk to him.

Luke, he said. They won't buy oranges if you don't smile. Understand? People like to see a little boy smiling, selling oranges. It makes them happy.

He listened to his uncle talking to him, looking into his uncle's eyes, and he understood the words. What he felt, though, was: Jake is mixed up, too. He saw the man stand up and heard him groan. Just like his father used to groan.

THE GOVERNOR'S PRIZE FOR LOCAL RIFLE ENTHUSIASTS

At a recent meeting of the Council of the Hong Kong Rifle Association it was announced that His Excellency the Governor, patron of the Association, had presented a cup to be known as "His Excellency the Governor's Prize" which would be shot for at the forthcoming Prize Meeting.

Conditions for this would be the same as those in use at the Imperial Meeting for His Majesty the King's Prize, with the exception that in the final stage the distances would be 700 and 800 yards, in place of the usual 900 and 1,000 yards, the target dimensions being reduced proportionately.

BLIND SOLDIER'S EXPERIENCE

War-Time Comrade Heard On Radio

Brighton.
A war-blinded patient at St. Dunstan's Brighton, listening to the wireless, recognised the voice of a comedian as that of his former sergeant-major.

The two are Stainless, Stephen, formerly Company Sgt.-Maj., Baines, of the York and Lancaster Regt., and Mr. Jack Bannister, of Clayton-street, Sheldersdale, Lancs., formerly a private in the same regiment.

Mr. Bannister heard the same voice again in a Brighton theatre, and afterwards was led behind the stage.

"I was told that when Stainless Stephen saw me he was delighted," said Mr. Bannister. "It was one of the happiest moments of my life when I heard him shout 'Jack' and knew he had recognised me. We last saw each other at Bourlon Wood, in France, in February, 1918, and thought each other dead."

Luke, his uncle Jake said. Sometimes you can laugh, can't you? Not him, said Jake's wife. All you Falkensteins are alike. If you weren't such a coward you would be out selling them oranges yourself. You belong the same place your brother is, she said. In the ground. Dead, she said.

It was this that made it hard for him to smile: the way this woman was always talking, not the words only, but the meaning in her voice, always picking on his Uncle Jake. How did she expect him to smile or feel all right when she was always telling them they were no good—the whole family no good?

MONDAY'S STORY

Monday's story will be "Life At The Sandwich Bar," by Granville Hamerton.

Jake was his father's younger brother and he looked like his father. Of course, she always had to say his father was better off dead just because he was no good at selling stuff. She was always telling Jake. This is America. You got to sell things. You got to get around and meet people and make them like you.

And Jake was always saying. Make them like me? How can I make them like me? And she was always getting sore at him and saying. O you fool. If I didn't have this baby in my belly, I'd go out and work in Woolworth's and keep you like a child. You ain't fit to be somebody.

Jake had that same desperate look his father had, and he was always getting sore at himself and wanting other people to be happy. Jake was always asking him to smile.

All right, Jake said. All right, all right, all right, kill me, drive me crazy. Sure I should be dead. Ten boxes of oranges and not a penny and nothing to eat. I should be dead. Should I stand in the street, holding oranges? Should I get a wagon maybe and go through the street? I should be dead, he said.

Then Jake made a face so sad it looked like nobody was ever that sad in the world, not even him, and he wished he didn't want to cry because Jake was so sad. On top of that Jake's wife got sorer than ever and began to cry the way she cried when she got real sore and you could just feel how terrible everything was because she didn't cry sad, she cried sore, reminding Jake of all the bills and all the hard times she had had with him and all about the baby in her belly, to come out, she said. Why, why, what good is another fool in the world?

There was a box of oranges on the floor, and she picked up two of them, crying, and she said. No fire in the stove, in November, all of us freezing. The house should be full of the smell of meat. Here, she cried, eat. Eat your oranges. Eat them until you die, and she cried and cried.

Jake was too sad to talk. He sat down and began to wave back and forth, looking crazy. And they asked him to laugh. And Jake's wife kept walking in and out of the room, holding the oranges and crying.

After a while she stopped crying. Now take him to a corner, she said, and see if he can't get a little money.

Jake was just about deaf if he looked like. He didn't even lift his head. So she shouted.

Take him to the corner. Ask him to smile at the people. We got to eat.

What's the use to be alive when everything is rotten and nobody knows what to do? What's the use to go to school and learn arithmetic and read poems and paint eggplants and all that stuff? What's the use to sit in a cold room until it is time to go to bed and hear Jake and his wife fight?

Is Birth-Control Wrong?

Mrs. Evangeline Booth
 v. Mrs. Sanger

Well-Known Doctor's Viewpoint

(By SIR BRUCE BRUCE-PORTER, K.B.E., C.M.G.)

(The following article is of particular interest at this time, in view of the recent visit to Hong Kong of Mrs. Margaret Sanger and the local controversy on the question of birth-control.)

"In the name of birth-control women to whom the blessing of immortality is stalking through our land poisoning the minds of our young people. Chastity is menaced and betrayed and adultery encouraged."

So says Mrs. Bramwell Booth, widow of the famous chief of the Salvation Army, and the fact that her accusation against the "birth-control" has called forth a string of protests from men and women, both married and single, all over Great Britain proves that the subject is one which is receiving a great deal of attention from the public.

"I am thirty years of age—worn out; dispirited, hopeless. I have brought into the world five children—not one of whom should ever have been born. Life for us all is merely misery. When I married the selfish waster who was forced upon me by my parents, I knew nothing of life. I was absolutely inexperienced."

"Now he has gone off and left us all in this appalling position; and I should like to see the advocate of 'bigger families,' or 'down with birth-control,' who would dare to face me!"

A Family Of Fifteen

The above is but one of the letters I have received which tell the other side of the story; finally, a working woman, herself one of a family of 15, and the mother of a child of 10, replies to Mrs. Bramwell Booth's accusation by saying: "If Mrs. Bramwell Booth was a poor working woman, with only a small weekly wage and a lot of hungry mouths to feed, she would not regard birth-control as immoral, or leading to immorality, but as a blessing."

Obviously, there is a great deal to be said against birth control, just as there is a great deal to be said for it; but if we are entirely fair-minded we shall see that the pros seem to outweigh the cons. First of all, it is argued by those who are against it, that it is an "unnatural" process, and as in many cases, she is forced also by economic circumstances to help, with the family exchequer, is unable to care for the earlier born children at a time when they most need for help.

In A "Natural" State

Speaking as a doctor I do not agree with this, because I consider that from the "natural" point of view, many of the children born into the world to-day would not be allowed to survive in any other sphere of natural life.

While I have met many splendid men and women who are opposed to the practice or teaching of birth-control, and whilst I have found in many cases that their arguments were based on what they considered to be the soundest principles of morality, yet I regret to say that I have always found that those people who condemn the practice of birth-control most strongly are those unfortun-

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LESSON SERMON

Subject: "Christ Jesus"

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HONG KONG

The subject of the lesson Sermon in all churches of Christ, Scientist, to-morrow March 1, will be: "Christ Jesus."

The Golden Text will be: "Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulder." (Isaiah 9:6).

Among others, the following citations from the Bible will be read: "He spake also this parable: A certain man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard; and he came and sought fruit thereon, and found none. Then said he unto the dresser of his vineyard, Behold, these three years I come seeking fruit on this fig tree, and find none: cut it down: why cumbereth it the ground?"

"And he answering said unto him, Lord, let it alone this year, till I shall dig about it, and dung it."

"And if it bear fruit, well; and if not, then after that thou shalt cut it down." (Luke 13:6-9).

Divine Principle. The Lesson Sermon will also include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Jesus established his church and maintained his mission on a spiritual foundation of Christ-healing. He taught his followers that his religion had a divine Principle, which would cast out error and heal both the sick and the sinning. He claimed no intelligence, action, nor life separate from God. Despite the persecution this brought upon him, he used his divine power to save men both bodily and spiritually."

"His students saw this power of Truth heal the sick, cast out evil, raise the dead: but the ultimate of this wonderful work was not spiritually discerned, even by them, until after the crucifixion, when their immaculate Teacher stood before them, the victor over sickness, sin, disease, 'death, and the grave.' (Pages 136 and 137).

able, I would definitely agree to stop certain methods of birth-control which can only result in harm. Here I agree with Mrs. Bramwell Booth.

But if it is a fact that fear of having a child is the only reason for our young women remaining virtuous, then I think our country is at a very low state of mentality, but I, for one, do not believe this to be the case.

The proportion of our young unmarried women who wish to be have as coquettes is too small and too unimportant to make them a factor in a problem which means life and health to so many thousands of their married sisters.

Religious Opposition. Finally, the religious bodies who oppose birth-control invariably teach that sin is a matter of intention more than a matter of act, and on this basis of reasoning, I fail to see how it is possible to contend that the sin is prevented merely by removing the means of its safe commitment!

The sooner we realise that progress—real progress—means the survival of the best, and not the worst, and calls for the best "citizens of the future" that we can produce, the sooner shall we give grave, national consideration to a subject which is too important to be shelved.

ing all the time and go to sleep and cry there and wake up and see the sky and feel the cold air and shiver and walk to school and eat oranges for lunch instead of bread?

Jake jumped up and began to shout at his wife. He said he would kill her and then stick a knife in his heart, so she cried more than ever and tore her dress, and she was naked to the waist. He said, "All right, better all of us were dead, but Jake put his arms around her and walked into the other room with her, and he could hear her crying and kissing him and telling him he was just a baby, a great big baby, and he needed her like a mother."

He had been standing in the corner, and it all happened so swiftly he had not noticed how tired he had become; but he was very tired and hungry, so he sat down. What is the use to be alive if you are all alone in the world and no mother and father and nobody to love you? He wanted to cry, but what is the use to cry when it don't do any good any-how?

After a while Jake came out of the room, and he was trying to smile.

All you got to do, Luke, he said, is hold two big oranges in your hand and wave them at the people when they go by in their automobiles, and smile. You'll sell a box of oranges in no time, Luke.

I'll smile, he said. One for five cents, three for ten cents, thirty-five cents a dozen.

That's it, said Jake. Jake lifted the box of oranges from the floor and began walking to the back door.

It was very sad in the street. Jake holding the box of oranges, and him walking beside Jake, listening to Jake telling him to smile big, and the sky was sad, and there were no leaves on the trees, and the street was sad, and it was very funny, the smell of the oranges was so clean and good and they looked so nice it was very funny. The oranges looked so nice and they didn't feel anything.

It was Ventura corner, where all the automobiles went by, and Jake put the box on the sidewalk. It looks best with only a small boy, he said. I'll go back to the house, Luke.

He squatted again and looked into his eyes. You ain't afraid, are you, Luke? I'll come back before it gets dark. It won't be dark for two hours yet. Just feel happy and smile at the people. I'll smile, he said.

Then Jake jumped up, like maybe he couldn't get up at all unless he jumped up, and he went hurrying down the street, walking away swiftly, making it a sad world, five cents for one, three for ten cents, thirty-five cents a dozen.

He picked out two of the biggest oranges and held them in his right hand, and lifted his arm over his head. It didn't seem right. It seemed sad. What's the use to hold two big oranges in your hand and get ready to smile at people going by in automobiles?

It looked like a long time before he saw an automobile coming up the street from town, right on his side, and when it got closer he saw there was a man driving and a lady in the back with two kids. He smiled very big when they got right close, but it didn't look

AFTER MUSSOLINI WHAT'S AHEAD

A Zenith
These Socialists at zenith numbered 2,000,000. The Communists and Socialists together numbered 156 in Parliament at this hectic moment, and soon after they split to pieces when an attempt at a general strike fizzled out as had the taking-over of the factories.

If the Italians were not built for Communism during the rudderless period of crisis on crisis that followed the war, how much less so can they be constructed that way to-day, after all these years of sternest moulding, a good deal under the transforming Corporations.

Possibly these have never worked to anything like the extent that Fascists would have us believe; none the less they constitute the main change effected by the Duce, and in any revolutionary effervescence would obviously be much to the fore. This "economic system with a profound philosophical background" is a compromise between pure individualistic capitalism and State control.

The Corporations ban all strikes, under the Labour Charter, and they are: Agriculture, Industry, Commerce, Internal Transport, Sea and Air, Banking and Commerce, Professional men and Artists.

Growing Indictment
A growing indictment of the Duce is couched as follows: "He first led on Youth by promising a new golden age under the Corporations. When these didn't come up to scratch he directed Youth's attention to the grasping, weak, and venal neighbour across the Alps (France) and, on making terms with Laval last January, he had to find another incentive to Youth and so found it in Africa. When Italian Youth sees that it has been sold three pups in succession it will rebel and then Mussolini will have to look out."

This is an extreme view but with a deal of truth in it; notwithstanding, one does not see Italy turning Communist as the result of most distressful possible times to come. More likely would occur one or other of these three denouements:

Grand Fascist Council
Second:—The Grand Fascist Council goes into action with a view to ruling the country. This is what all orthodox Fascists tell you will be the inevitable sequel to any vacancy at the Palazzo Venezia.

In effect one reads: "The Grand Fascist Council is the supreme repository of power. The King appoints the Head of the Government from a panel presented by the Council, and he subsequently acts with regard to this Head on the advice of the Council, which also holds the matter of the Royal prerogative and Royal succession in its hands. The Council also chooses Corporation candidates, M.P.'s lists, endorses all treaties and legislation, and deals directly with the Pope. It is a patriotic oligarchy comprised of the three surviving quadrumviri—the Duce, Count de Vecchi, Marshal de Bono—the Ministers of State, the Presidents of the Senate and of the Corporations, the three most important under-secretaries, all ex-Ministers who since 1927 have served five years with the Government (this lets in Marshal Balbo and Signor Grandi), General Secretary Starace of the Party, the C.G.S. of the Militia, and the President of the Special Tribunals. The Council is the guardian of the power and tradition of the Fascist Revolution."

Duce's Hope
In fact there is not the slightest doubt that the Duce's plan and hope, in the event of anything happening to himself, is that this Council of about 25 chiefs would at once proceed to carry on in even stead, later electing one or even three from among its ranks as follow-on dictatorial timber. But would the country stand for the Council which has been 100 per cent. Mussolini all through? And in the event of a revulsion of feeling against the Council, what next, in the way of alternative?

Third:—Ballooning of the country round the King and a form of military dictatorship for the time being. There is much latent sympathy with His Majesty over the way he has been treated, and nowhere is this stronger than in the Army, of which he has remained the chief—almost the one position of honour that has been left him.

lost the great tradition it won in the unifying of Italy in 1860—it was not solely Cavour's work. Many Italians of 35 and over remember how happy was Italy under Victor Emmanuel, with few of the grim troubles of to-day. It is also an open secret that the King was against the Ethiopian campaign, and that to-day he is exerting every influence in his capitals to get Italy out of events in the least damaging manner.

Yet is His Majesty not too much of the old regime? Has he not taken too much of a philosophical back-seat to engender the necessary enthusiasm now? "The King reigns but does not govern." "Yes," say some, "but this monarch was too submissive even under another of dictatorial proclivities, Giolitti!"

Final Possibility
So that we come finally to this possibility—

Fourth:—Abdication of the King and accession of the Prince and Princess of Piedmont, the new King to be the head of an army dictatorship until better times were turned—on the same basis as was neighbouring King Alexander, though with a far greater popularity behind him. For the Prince is very much liked and known, especially in the north, and he and the Princess are only just turned 30, that is, can also appeal to the eternal younger generation.

Of course, both King and Prince are currently standing firmly for their country; nor is it the intention of the grim troubles of to-day to resuscitate any of the extraordinary stories of trouble circulating on the Continent. But the point is that the Prince is a personage who could carry the Army, the educated classes, and perhaps no small number of faithful peasants with him. Certainly the aristocracy, the bourgeoisie, and the intellectuals would be for H.R.H. They have had their whack under Fascism and would welcome easier days.

"NOT USED TO FAILURE"

Car Suicide Of Law Student

FATHER GIVES EVIDENCE

Oxford—The suicide of a law student, who, his father said, was "intolerant of failure," was described at an inquest at Eynsham, near Oxford, recently, on Claude Alfred Bradford, aged 22, a solicitor's clerk, clerk of Buxton. He was found dead in his car in a lane, with a tube beside him leading from the exhaust.

Alfred Frank Bradford, the father, a manufacturer's manager, said his son appeared normal and cheerful when he last saw him after lunch on Monday.

Highly Strung
The Coroner: Would you call your son highly strung?—Yes, he had a very quick brain. He was quick to learn and quick to take action in everything he did.

I gather from this letter (produced but not read) that he thought his career was not successful?—He had passed his intermediate examination and was working for another. He had not been successful in bookkeeping. He was a bit troubled. He was not used to failure. He was used to doing everything quickly. He may have had at the back of his mind that the examination would be troublesome.

Something Snapped
From the letter it seems that he intended to take his life. Is it your opinion that he would not know what he was doing?—I think he came out to clear his brain and clarify it. Then he got far away, lost his bearings, and something must have snapped.

Mr. Bradford said his son went to Magdalen College School and knew Oxford and district very well. He added: "This is a part of the world he loved. It was full of happy memories for him. Something must have attracted him."

A verdict of suicide while of unsound mind was returned.

GIPSY DENIES HYPNOTISM

Court Sequel To Garage Visit

ALLEGED MYSTIC PASSES

An allegation that he was hypnotised by a gypsy and lost self-control was made at Newton Abbot police-court last month by Arthur Sidney Jones, a garage proprietor.

Rose Mitchell was fined £2 for stealing 8s. from Mr. Jones, and was ordered to make restitution.

Mr. Jones said that Mitchell called at his garage and asked for two split pins, which he gave her. She then offered to tell his fortune and asked for a piece of silver. To get rid of her he went to the office, took a shilling from a box and gave it to her. She said that she must bless it, and she made mystic passes over it with her hand.

8s. Missing
Mitchell tapped his hip pocket, and finding it contained money, asked him to let her hold the money and to lend her a handkerchief with which to cover it. He took 23s. 6d. from his pocket. A handkerchief was placed over the cash and Mitchell made several passes with her hand. She purported to return the money, but after she had driven off he found 8s. was missing.

Mitchell denied hypnotising Mr. Jones, and said that he gave her the money for telling his fortune.

Supt. Martin said that that was not the first case that had come to the notice of the police. "The practice has become a positive rump among garage proprietors," he added.

Mr. Lancelot Ruggles Andrews resumed duty as Deputy Registrar, Supreme Court, and Deputy Registrar of Companies on February 24.

Mr. Eric Himsforth resumed the duties of Administrative Assistant, Sanitary Department, on February 24.

CYCLIST KILLED BY CAR

£3,000 For Widow And Children

In the King's Bench Division last month Mr. Justice Lawrence awarded £3,000 to Mrs. Elsie E. Gordon, of Holden-avenue, Kingsbury, Middlesex, and her two children for the loss of husband and father, Mr. Charles Hector Gordon.

Mr. Gordon, who was head of the pasteurising milk plant of the London Co-operative Society at Willesden, was killed by a motor-car while riding a cycle. The defendant, Mr. John George Chadwick, of Geary-road, N.W., admitted liability.

Mr. Justice Lawrence awarded £2,735 to the widow and £135 and £130 to the children respectively.

DIVORCE CASE RETRIAL

Adultery Charges Refuted

A Divisional Divorce Court recently granted the retrial of a suit in which a decree nisi was granted to Mr. Harold Edward Manners, of Vicarage-road, Leyton, E. The decree nisi was given on the ground of the alleged adultery of his wife, Florence Cecilia Dorothy Manners, known as Thelma, with William Marcus Fortescue.

Mrs. Manners asked for a retrial on the ground that the petition was never served upon her, and that she had not been guilty of adultery with the co-respondent or anyone. She desired to attend the trial and to defend.

Sir Boyd Merriman, in his judgment, said that when the petition was heard by him last June there were affidavits that the petition had been served.

HYDE PARK SCENE

American Accuses Guardsmen

Mr. Stanley Herbert Picker, an American managing director, of Gloucester-place, W., described at Marlborough-street Police-court last month an alleged attack made on him by three Grenadier Guardsmen in Hyde Park.

The accused were Guardsmen Harold Taylor, aged 22 Brian Fergus, aged 20, and Walter Joseph Booth, aged 24, who were remanded on bail charged with robbing Mr. Picker of £5, and using personal violence to him.

Asked For Light
Mr. Parker said that Fergus, after asking him for a light, seized him by the throat and two other men seized him from behind. There was a struggle, lasting about 15 minutes. His wallet, containing five £1 notes, was taken, and he was taped on the head with something hard.

The three guardsmen, while on bail, were in military custody.

SUNDAY SHOWS IN LONDON

All-In Wrestling Bouts

WOMAN CONTESTANT "UNCONSCIOUS"

A series of actions by common informers under the Lord's Day Observance Act, 1781, concerning Sunday all-in wrestling, came before Mr. Justice Atkinson in the King's Bench Division last month.

The first was against Mr. Alf Allen, of the Black Prince, Walworth-road, S.E., who, it was alleged, conducted an entertainment at the Chelsea Palace on Sundays, June 30, July 7 and 14 last year. The plaintiff was Mr. Francis James Kelly, of Royal-avenue, Chelsea, who claimed £300 as penalties under the Act.

Mr. Gerald Gardiner, for Mr. Kelly, referred to the other actions as follows:

The second action was against the printer of advertisements of the entertainments at Chelsea Palace; the third was against a Mr. Gregory, alleged to be the manager of an entertainment at Hammersmith; the fourth was against the Evening Standard, who published advertisements; and the fifth was against a Mr. Lane in respect of the Hammersmith matter.

Mr. Kelly said that, when he went to Chelsea Palace on Sunday, July 7, he saw a poster outside the building which said "The sport all women adore: all-in wrestling."

Mr. Gardiner: Did you like the performance?

"Sport All Women Adore"
Mr. Kelly: No. At the end of the first bout I began to doubt whether it was sport at all; at the end of the second bout I was sure it was not.

He added that the exhibition was disgusting, and he formed the impression that some of the bouts were "arranged."

Capt. Charles C. C. Lewis, plaintiff's solicitor and landlord, said that he went to Chelsea Palace on Sunday, July 14. He alleged that, during a bout between an Italian woman and a masked woman, the Italian was rendered unconscious by a neck hold, and her opponent was awarded the verdict.

"Threatened To Brain Him"
Mr. J. P. Valetta (for Mr. Allen) suggested that Capt. Lewis had never seen Mr. Allen in the ring at the Sunday all-in wrestling.

Capt. Lewis: On one occasion I saw one of the contestants threatening to brain him with a spittoon.

Mr. Joseph Shepherd, of Blenheim-gardens, Brixton, the principal of an agency which supplies wrestlers for all-in contests, said that, on the three dates concerned, he managed and conducted the exhibitions.

He kept Mr. Allen's name on the printed matter purely as a matter of business, because, while Mr. Allen was well known, he (Mr. Shepherd) was not.

Dr. Peter David Klein, who said he went to the exhibitions as medical attendant, denied that Mr. Allen was chased by a wrestler as alleged. He never had to attend any wrestler injured because of brutal treatment and he denied that any attempt was made, in the bout referred to by Capt. Lewis, to asphyxiate an Italian woman wrestler.

Mr. Justice Atkinson said that he would give judgment later.

Turned a hosepipe on the occupant of the house.

The boy was accused of being found on enclosed premises. He was remanded for eight days.
